NURSING CLASS CONTINUES LARGE

Dr. Clarke Tells of Food Inspection and Milk Grades and Miss Davis Explains Nutrition and Dietetics—Dr. O'Meara Stresses Importance of Tuberculosis Test—Last Meeting Next Wednesday.

Again there were between five and six hundred in attendance at the free nursing class at the high school Monday evening, when the subject considered was "Food."

The first speaker was Dr. Clarke, the city food inspector from the Board of Health, who spoke on "Food Inspection." In the first place Dr. Clarke called attention to the inspection of foods as a means of disease prevention. Pure foods are not the cause of sickness. Then he noted the fact that inspection, especially if made unannounced, was a continual incentive to food merchants to do the best with the facilities at hand to the clean, neat, and careful in their shops. As for the consumer, continual inspection gives an added guarantee to the reputation of the dealer.

Reasonable inspection does not call for fancy counters and show cases, and many other expensive frills, but it does mean in the case of markets, especially where uncooked foods are sold, the use of plenty of soap and water and elbow grease, particularly the latter, not only in the keeping of the place and the foods clean, but in connection with the persons of those selling the foods. A very reasonable and simple requirement, which has doubtless been often ignored in the past because so simple.

Today the label on package foods—canned, bottled, etc.—stands not only for attractiveness and tastiness, but for the fact that in its preparation it has been inspected by experts, whose passing of the article means wholesomeness. In so many other lines we require continuous inspection, of our automobiles, of our Victrolas, etc., yet the continued inspection of food is just for something to keep us alive, while the inspection of, say our Victrolas, touches our vanity.

Dr. Clarke wisely dwelt at great length on milk inspection, showing the absolute necessity of cleanliness regarding the housing of cows; that of the cows themselves; of those having the care of the cows and who do the milking and bottling—especially if the latter is done on the farm; the bottles, in fact every single thing that in any way comes in contact with either the cow or the milk.

Next in importance was considered the frequent, very frequent use of the milkman's either the producer or retailer, "handy companion," a thermometer, for it is only in the warm milk that the bacteria which germinate in common parlance is just dirt germs—grows rapidly. No did Dr. Clarke consider that the keeping of milk at a proper temperature, about 50 degrees was up to the milk men only, but to the consumer as well. As soon as milk is delivered it should be put where it will be cool. And, since milk is like a blotter in that it absorbs everything that comes near it, no receptacle of milk should be left uncovered even in a refrigerator, lest the odor or taste of some pungent food nearby, or the taste of the milk.

The importance of tuberculin test—of cows was made plain, inasmuch as no one would willingly drink or use milk, especially for babies, taken from cows having tuberculosis.

Next Dr. Clark gave some valuable information as to the grading of milk. While there is no "Certified" sold in Kingston it is well to know what is required to gain such a grading. The cows must have passed the tuberculin test; there must be well built, hardy housing the cattle, also properly built milk houses. The milk must be bottled at the farms and delivered within 24 hours from the time of milking. It must have a very low bacterial count and all of the processes of handling must meet with the approval of a milk commission of the county medical society.

Next comes Grade A milk, also a good grade with this difference: It need not be bottled at the farm, but it must have a low bacterial count.

Grade B milk is the grade now sold in Kingston, with which all are acquainted. C grade milk was originally intended only for bakeries and restaurants to be used there in the preparation of foods requiring high heat in their making.

After considering the milk question Dr. Clarke spoke briefly but wisely of the need of inspection of meat at slaughter houses, both before and during and after the time of killing. Again meats in cans, or packages should be continuously inspected to guard against molds, spoilage, etc. Even the good housewife will be able to recognize when meats in packages are discolored and therefore unfit for food, but for the sake of those not so well informed, the inspection is needed.

No canned goods either meat or vegetable in dent cans, in bulging cans should be used. But whole some foods, properly canned in this are really better than when canned in glass.

Dr. Clarke summarized his valuable talk by reciting nature's prevention against spoiled or unwholesome foods to be cold, with reasonable cleanliness, soap, water and elbow grease being used.

Miss Davis, head of the department of Home Economics of the high school was then introduced by Dr. Day, and gave a very enlightening talk on "Nutrition, Foods and Foods for Invalids."

Miss Davis defined as the study of scientific laws which govern life and growth, especially of human beings, while dietetics is the application of

BRICK MARKET AT ITS HIGHEST

Now $16 Per Thousand in New York Because Few Barges Can Get Through Ice—$17 Market Unlikely.

With Hudson river brick selling at $16 a thousand, there is a rush among brickmakers of the lower Hudson river to get their supply to the New York market, which is practically exhausted.

Six large loads of brick from Haverstraw managed to get through the ice of the lower Hudson several days ago with a total cargo of 1,800,000 brick. The six barges arrived at the West Fifty-second street wholesale docks before the brick market opened at 9 o'clock in the morning, and by 10 o'clock the market was entirely sold out.

Twenty-eight barges were brought to Haverstraw from New York and the path they cut through the lower Hudson ice flows enabled the six loaded barges to get to New York to prevent an actual brick famine. Since Friday the Haverstraw manufacturers have used every available laborer to load the newly-arrived barges in order to get the brick to market before the price breaks. There is a feeling in the trade that the days of $17 per thousand common brick are almost over, even with the prospect of enforced shut-down. Technical journals of the building trades say it is possible that brick of the best quality will again touch $17 wholesale, but barring a protracted strike in the soft coal mines, the next few weeks will probably mark the peak of common brick prices for this part of the year at least.

Boys Drown.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 7.—Melton Miller, six years old, and Edward Heist, seven, were drowned last night in a pond on a farm near Clarence. Warm weather had weakened the ice on which they were walking. Their bodies were recovered by a searching posse.

These laws to a particular human subject or set of subjects, as babies, children, adults or those sick with some specific disease.

Miss Davis thought people get needlessly scared when they hear that folks should be fed by rule, yet we eat to supply real needs of the body, not just to satisfy the appetite. So how well our food will serve its purpose will depend upon the intelligence with which we select it.

Foods are divided into two large classes as follows:

Organic—Protein, fats and oils, carbohydrates, starch and sugar, vitamins.

Inorganic—Mineral matter, water.

The definite chemical elements of the above mentioned food substances were briefly given, and it was explained that as yet science had not given us a complete definition of vitamins. However we do know that they are minute crystalline substances absolutely necessary for life, and include soluble fats, soluble water, etc.

Miss Davis in a simple way then gave a somewhat scientific account of the food substances needed, their relative value to the body growth and development.

Next Miss Davis took up the subject of "Foods for Invalids," and mentioning the following books as giving information on their respective topics: "Food and Cookery for Sick and Convalescents," by Farmer, published by Little, Brown & Co.; "Vitamin Manual," by Eddy, published by Williams & Wilkins, Baltimore; "Essentials of Dietetics," by Pope, and "A Dietary Computer," by Pope, both published by G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York.

Fluid or liquid diets were described, also "soft" diets and "light or convalescent" diets. In going about the feeding of the sick, the nature and severity of the disease must be taken into account, the severity and duration of the attack, the strength of the patient, as well as the nature of the diet during the acute stage of the disease.

While plain, simple cooking should be the rule in health, it should be even more rigidly observed in time of sickness. Furthermore stress was laid upon the daintiness with which food for the sick should always be served.

Miss Davis then gave special diets for quite a long list of special diseases, and the note books were kept very busy.

After the addresses which held the absolute attention of the big class, Dr. O'Meara spoke for a few minutes, and among other things gave the following prescription for a sore throat wash: 1 part iodine, 5 parts glycerine, applied with a swab, which the doctor told exactly how to make. A good gargle he also gave as a teaspoon of table salt, a little conveying him, were both kept secret.

Before the hearing began it was reported that Gustave Monette, chief of counsel for the accused, would ask for an eight days' postponement in order to make further preparations for the defense.

STATE TO HELP DISABLED VETS

Brundage Bonus Bill Will Give Immediate Relief to Those Out of Employment 30 Days.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, March 7.—The compromise bonus bill introduced by Assemblyman Brundage, Republican, Orange, under which only disabled veterans of the World War who have been out of work for thirty days, will benefit, will be passed promptly by the legislature. It has the approval of Governor Miller, and carries an appropriation of $1,000,000.

Under the measure, the maximum bonus for the disabled veterans is $250. If single, he will receive $30 a month, if married $45. Provision is made however, that disabled veterans who are receiving vocational training from the federal government, cannot benefit under the Brundage bill.

The bill creates a commission composed of the attorney general, adjutant general and state comptroller to administer the fund. There will be a deputy in each assembly district.

Service men in the legislature estimate that there are about 6,000 disabled veterans in the state without employment.

The Republicans are in the same position that the Democrats were in the League of Nations fight. Most of the Democratic senators have banded together to defeat the treaty unless it is burdened with such reservations as the administration forces declare would virtually destroy it. In the League battle which ended in the rejection of the Versailles pact, most of the Republican senators united in attacking a long string of reservations to the League covenant. These the Democratic side denounced as destructive, and President Wilson refused to accept them.

The Republicans now have enough votes to command the majority necessary to defeat reservations but they cannot force ratification of the treaty itself by the essential two-thirds without adequate Democratic support.

The revolt against Senator Underwood's leadership is growing. He admits it. Two of the Democratic senators whose support he counted upon are unavoidably absent. Owen, of Oklahoma, who is in Europe and Trautman of Florida, who was forced to return home by his wife's illness.

Word was received by Senator Lodge that Senator Crow of Pennsylvania will probably not be able to be present when the vote on ratification occurs, because of his continued illness. It is not likely that Crow can be "paired" although a pair has been arranged for Senator Harrell, of Oklahoma, who will also be forced to absent himself because of ill health.

The gap expected to be left by Crow's absence must be filled by Underwood with a Democratic vote, thereby increasing the number he must command besides his own, to eight. Of the thirty-six Democratic senators, twenty-eight are reported as lining up against ratification unless such reservations are attached to the treaty as the Republicans do not want. Underwood's votes are cast that many Democratic votes are cast against the treaty, with those of four Republicans—"Irreconcilables," Borah, Idaho; Johnson, California; La Follette, Wisconsin; and France, Maryland, and with Crow absent and not "paired."

The Women's Relief Corps, which is the women's department of the G. A. On the occasion of the anniversary of its founder's birth the corps passed a special vote of congratulation to him, which was forwarded with due ceremony with the huge basket of roses.

Mrs. Wiley, formerly Mrs. Arthur B. Ross, has resided in the house where she and Captain Wiley now live for 35 years. Captain Wiley has been married principally in mining and the meat business since he came to Globe. He has refused public office a number of times, although he was a member of the military staff of the governor of Arizona at one time. He was the founder of the first school in Pinal county, from which Gila county was afterwards cut off and has been prominent in civic and educational affairs in the city and state.

Captain Wiley enlisted early in the Civil War as a "buck" private and fought through until the end, rising to the rank of Lieutenant. He served as first sergeant of engineers several years after the war and was often offered a commission but refused it.

PACIFIC TREATY DEFEAT POSSIBLE

Republicans Can Swing Enough Votes to Heat Reservations, But Not to Ratify—Underwood Admits Loss of Democratic Followers.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, March 7.—The mathematical uncertainty of the Democratic lineup of the four-power Pacific treaty continued today to plague both Senator Lodge, the Republican leader, and Senator Underwood, who is finding it difficult to maintain his titular leadership of the minority side.

The Republicans are in the same position that the Democrats were in the League of Nations fight. Most of the Democratic senators have banded together to defeat the treaty unless it is burdened with such reservations as the administration forces declare would virtually destroy it. In the League battle which ended in the rejection of the Versailles pact, most of the Republican senators united in attacking a long string of reservations to the League covenant. PYTHIAN HALL IN NEW QUARTERS

Franklin Lodge to Move to Roundway and Thomas Street and Take Name With Them—Old Pythian Hall to Become Clermont Hall.

After occupying the same quarters for over a quarter of a century, Franklin Lodge, No. 37, Knights of Pythias, will on April first move from their present quarters in Pythian Hall at the corner of Wall and John streets to new quarters in the Kennedy Hall, corner of Broadway and Thomas street. Hereafter Kennedy Hall, which has been leased by Franklin Lodge, will be known as Pythian Hall. When the Knights give up their present quarters the hall which they have occupied for so many years will take the name of Clermont Hall, which the new owners have adopted.

The property at Broadway and Thomas street has been thoroughly renovated and new fixtures installed and everything will be in order for the first meeting which will take place there on April 3. The new quarters of Franklin Lodge are modernly equipped with heat, light and conveniences which is one of the reasons for the move by the lodge.

ICE IN RIVER STILL HOLDS.

EAST OFF KINGSTON POINT.

Navigation Between Poughkeepsie and New York on Friday.

According to the river men the ice in the Hudson river off Kingston Point is still holding fast, but the weather of the past few days is playing havoc with it.

An effort will be made to break the ice and open navigation between New York and Poughkeepsie on Friday when one of the steamboats of the Central-Hudson Steamboat Company will start from the metropolis for Poughkeepsie and open the water route for the first time in 1922.

The ice boats have been taken off the river at New Hamburg and at Hyde Park.

No date has been fixed as yet by the Central-Hudson line to open navigation between Kingston and New York.

FOUR PINE HILL MAN CRUSHED BETWEEN CARS.

Trainman Edward R. Ellsworth Killed at Nineveh.

Caught between the tank of his locomotive and a freight car on an adjoining track, and his life crushed out, Edward R. Ellsworth, 32 years old, a D. & H. trainman residing in Oneonta, met a frightful death in the Nineveh yards Sunday morning. The body was terribly mutilated, being crushed between the cars and then dropping to the track, where several cars of the train passed over it. Ellsworth leaves a wife and four small children. He was born in Phenixia, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Ellsworth. A large portion of his life was spent at Pine Hill, where, on December 21, 1914, he was united in marriage to Maude Smith. They had resided in Oneonta for nearly five years.

LIMERICK IS AN ARMED CAMP

With Loyal and Rebel Troops Facing Each Other and Awaiting Hostile Act—Rebels Running City.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Limerick, Ireland, March 7.—This city is an armed camp today, with heavily armed forces of loyal Irish Republican Army troops and between 500 and 600 Irish rebels facing each other.

Up to noon the mutinous battalions of Limerick and Tipperary troops had failed to obey the ultimatum of the Irish provisional government at Dublin, to withdraw.

The rebels were holding all the principal hotels and the military barracks. They are armed with machine guns, rifles and pistols, and are in a strategic position to defend themselves if the loyal troops open an attack.

Up to noon there had been no clashes, but there was a tense feeling in the air.

All the shops were closed. Shutters were put up and many persons left the city, fearing fighting in the streets.

During the day the rebels seized additional buildings. The loyal troops remained in their billets, while armed rebels parolled the streets.

It appeared that each side was awaiting a hostile move by the other.

ASSEMBLY HOLDS LAST HEARINGS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., March 7.—The last hearings before assembly committees are being held this afternoon. Tomorrow the rules committee, of which Speaker Machold is chairman, will take charge of all legislation in the lower house. Thursday probably will wind up the hearings before the senate committees.

Scores of local bills will be passed every legislative day this week in both senate and assembly. Every legislator will try his hardest to get the rules committee to report on his local bills so that he will have something on which to base a campaign for reelection, providing he is a candidate next fall. In legislative circles this week is known as "log rolling week."

There will be short sessions of the assembly tonight to receive the final reports of the various committees. It is probable that there will be several night sessions next week.

Legislative leaders, today reiterated that no legislation, no matter how important, will postpone final adjournment of the legislature on St. Patrick's Day.

The senate judiciary committee will give a hearing tomorrow afternoon on the Walton Child Welfare measure, which carries out recommendations made by the governor in his annual message.

KIN PROVISION STAYS BONUS BILL.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, March 7. Denying that they are having any trouble over the provisions of the soldier bonus bill which is being whipped into shape for presentation to the house, Republican members of the ways and means committee tried again today to smooth out several tangles of phraseology which are holding up the legislation temporarily.

Chairman Fordney of the committee was of the opinion that work on the bill would not be completed by the Republicans during the day, so he called off the meeting with Democratic members to consider the measure in the form in which it will be laid before the house. This meeting may not be held before tomorrow or Thursday.

The Republican committee said today that the provisions of the bill met with their unanimous approval but they have been unable to reach a final agreement on the new section giving advantages of the new bonus plan to the next of kin of veterans who have died since the armistice.

This provision of the bill was taken up by the committee today but had to be laid aside for a scheduled hearing on the constitutional resolution to abolish tax exempt societies. Some objections had been made to the wording of the bill and experts were called in to make the language clear and specific.

TEMPORARY ARMY BUILDINGS BURN AT PLATTSBURG.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Glen Falls, N. Y., March 7.—Seven temporary structures at the United States army post at Plattsburg, were destroyed by fire early this morning. The buildings were used as storehouses and contained army equipment. The main buildings and barracks were untouched by the flames. Lieut. Colonel O. C. Nichols, commander, said he could not estimate the amount of loss. A few soldiers fighting the flames were overcome with smoke.

GERMANS PAID BILLION AND HALF

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, March 7.—Germany between the time the armistice was signed and January 1, 1922, paid the Allies 6,457,856,000 gold marks indemnity or about $1,557,000,000. It was revealed today in an official communiqué issued by the Inter-Allied Reparations Commission.

This amount includes payments made both in money and goods.

Germany still has more than $31,000,000,000 indemnity to pay, but it is understood that the German delegation will make an effort at the Geneva conference to have the reparations burden lightened if France allows the subject to be discussed.

Germany is paying under the terms of the indemnity ultimatum of May 1921, signed in London. However, this was slightly modified by the Inter-Allied Reparations Commission at the time of the supreme council meeting in Cannes.

Under the Wiesbaden agreement, Germany is making large indemnity payments to France in goods. The German government contends that it must pay the bulk of the indemnity in merchandise of various kinds.

DISPUTED GROCERY BILLS IN COURT.

When court convened this morning at 10 o'clock case No. 121, Ernest Shaler against Island Paradise was taken from the day calendar and marked second Monday. The action brought by W. R. Harrison and Leon Blankfeld against Frederick Perry, the East Kingston grocer, was taken up for trial. The action is brought to recover $50.28 which plaintiff claims is due them. Defendant claims that all bills have been paid and that he holds receipts for all goods received by him from the firm. In order to shorten the case court suspended at 11 o'clock for half an hour when Mr. Cook, attorney for defendant, announced the alleged accounts of the plaintiff together with the delivery slips signed by Mr. Perry or his representative when the goods were delivered by the Harrison driver with the view of agreeing upon as many of the items of the account as possible so that only the contested items would have to be proven in court. As the bills and slips cover a period of more than a year there were a large number of items which if proved separately would consume a day or two in court.

At the suggestion of Justice Roach court suspended while the accounts of plaintiff and defendant were compared and the uncontested items eliminated. Judge William H. Brinler, Jr., appeared for plaintiff and Andrew J. Cook, of the firm of Van Etten & Cook, for defendant.

LENTEN SERVICE AT ST. MARY'S

At the Lenten service at St. Mary's Church Wednesday evening, the sermon will be delivered by Rev. Father Sanderson, C. S. S. R., one of the professors at the Theological College at Esopus. The service will commence at 8 o'clock. Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of this week are ember days. The extra force of remaining of ember days in Lent is that Saturday demands abstinence from flesh meat. The pastor invites the men of the parish to make next Sunday, March 12, when they will comply with their Easter precept of Holy Communion.

On Sunday, March 12, the Feast of St. Joseph, the Knights of Columbus will receive Holy Communion in a body at the church.

SCOTCH RESEMBLES EDWARD R. SANDS.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Warehous Point, Conn., March 7.—Did Edward F. Sands, missing brother-in-law of William Desmond Taylor, murdered film director, commit suicide in Connecticut?

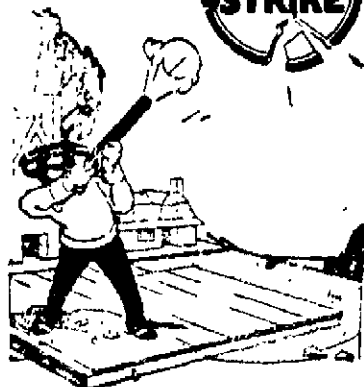

An answer to this question is being sought today by state police and other authorities of the state as a result of the disclosure that the body of a man shot to death, apparently a suicide here on February 13, bore a startling resemblance to the description of Edward F. Sands as furnished by the police of Los Angeles.

St. James's Church.

The Adult Bible Class, Friendship Class, will give a playlet at the social and annual meeting on Friday evening of this week. All the members are urged to attend. Members may also bring friends with them. Refreshments will be served.

Next Sunday "Ladies' Night" will be observed at the evening service. The members of the various women's organizations of the church are urgently requested to meet in the parlor at quarter past seven. Dr. Barzawath will preach a sermon appropriate to the occasion. It is expected that the women will have a larger number present than did the men at a recent service.

The prayer meeting will probably be well attended on Thursday as this is the Lenten season. The pastor will give a short address.

JOHNSON TALKS ON FREEMASONRY

Belief in God, in the Brotherhood of Man, and the Upholding of American Institutions—These are the Three Principles of Freemasonry, said Right Worshipful Charles H. Johnson, Junior Grand Warden of the grand lodge of the state of New York, in an address on Freemasonry Monday evening before the members of Rondout Lodge, No. 343, F. & A. M., of which lodge he was made an honorary member in December, 1919.

Junior Grand Warden Johnson's address was one of the most interesting that the lodge had heard in some time. He said that for centuries scholars and Masons had endeavored to trace back and ascertain just when Freemasonry came into existence, but it was the only fraternal organization in the world that could not designate the date of its birth. It was possible to tell the year and place where other fraternal organizations came into existence, but that was not so of the Masonic Order. While this was interesting it was not particularly important to know the year when Freemasonry came into being, but it was much more important to know what the organization stood for at the present time.

The Masonic Order to sum it up briefly stood for belief in God, in the brotherhood of man, and the upholding of our American institutions. The order was founded on belief in the faith and love of God. The place where a man first became a Mason was in his own heart, and unless he did so no degrees prepared by man would ever make him a true Mason. The Masonic organization stood for education, and was instrumental in organizing the public school system of our country. The history of the organization was interwoven with the history of our country, and from Washington, our first president, who was a Mason, down to Harding, another Mason, it was men with Masonic ideals who steered our country through perilous ways and into the safe paths that have placed America foremost in the world.

At the close of Brother Johnson's address he was greeted with tremendous applause and was presented with an engraved certificate of honorary membership in the lodge expressing the high regard in which he was held by the members of Rondout Lodge. The presentation on behalf of the lodge was made by Past Master Samuel Stern.

The address Monday evening was the first in a series of talks on Freemasonry to be given by the lodge. The lodge accepted the invitation of the Rev. Mr. Wright, chaplain of the lodge, and pastor of the Port Ewen M. E. Church, to attend services in that church Sunday evening, March 12. The members of the lodge will meet at the rooms that evening at 8 o'clock to attend in a body.

Next Monday evening the lodge will confer the first degree and the following Monday the Master Mason degree will be conferred.

Wednesday evening the members of Rondout Lodge will travel by auto to Catskill where the officers of Rondout Lodge will confer the Master Mason degree on a class of Catskill candidates. The trip will be made by auto bus leaving the Rondout Lodge rooms at 6:30 o'clock that evening. For the convenience of the uptown members a bus will leave the central post office at 6:30 o'clock.

IDEAL PARK.

Ideal Park, March 6.—Mr. and Mrs. L. E. DeVall and family spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. John H. Gardner and family. It being the occasion of Miss Fannie Gardner's fifteenth birthday. About 9 o'clock a dainty luncheon with ice cream and two big birthday cakes each with 15 candles was served. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

Miss Mary Zauner of Mt. Tremper who has been spending the winter in Brooklyn, was a caller at the Boerker farm Friday last.

William Palen of Winnipeg, Can., brother of Mrs. L. E. DeVall, is expected to arrive in Ideal Park Wednesday. For some years past Mr. Palen has been on the staff of the Winnipeg Free Press.

It may be news to some to learn that the rabbit hunting championship of this section has changed hands and is now held by Happy Chase of Mt. Tremper. This is freely acknowledged to be a fact by Fred the former champion. Fred by the way is some rabbit hunter too, he says so himself, but he says Happy's system is a winner. This system has been somewhat of a mystery until recently when the season closed. Happy gave it away. It works something like this. Happy uses no dog; he runs on himself, that is if they survive the first scare, if they do, Happy jogs them for about three rounds and on the fourth when the rabbit is tired and discouraged, Happy doubles back and waits for them to come home, or in range of his trusty following place, when it's only a matter of seconds until the rabbit is resting quietly in Happy's game bag. You, he says gets 'em. Ask Dick or George.

THREE-PIECE SUIT

Coat, Skirt and Blouse Costume, French Spring Outfit.

Fashion of Making Blouses That Extend Below Bottom of Suit Jacket Widely Advocated.

The three-piece suit—that is, the costume consisting of a coat, a skirt and a silk blouse, rather than a coat and a one-piece dress—is one of the most important features in the clothes which the principal French couturiers are now preparing for spring, a Paris fashion authority says. Although separate, the blouse is really a part of the suit, as it is either combined or trimmed with the cloth from which the coat and skirt are made. Used as a trimming, the cloth is often in the form of appliqued motifs or tubular stripes.

A suit worn at Longchamps, and one which will doubtless find favor with the American woman this spring consists of a hip-length box coat and skirt of tan kashmir. The coat has seven eighths length sleeves in pagoda form and a soft rolling collar, which may be fastened closely about the neck or left open to the waistline. The accompanying blouse is of tan silk, with a dotted pattern in brown and has a high collar and long bishop sleeves. Since the coat worn over this blouse has short sleeves and an open neck a very striking effect is obtained by the high collared blouse with its long sleeves falling below the shorter sleeves of the coat. The most important feature of this blouse is a plume of cloth which hangs below the bottom of the coat. The coat is lined with the silk from which the blouse is made.

The fashion of making blouses that extend below the bottom of suit jackets is one widely advocated by the leading dressmakers. Madame Tenny shows a long blouse of silk with a deep band of embroidery at its lower edge. This blouse is considerably longer than the suit coat with which it is worn, the embroidery appearing as though it were on the skirt or coat.

All the shades of tan and gray will be prominent in the new spring suits of both the tailored and fancy types. There is a persistent rumor that the vogue for the plain tailored gray suit, which proved such a success in Paris last spring will be repeated this season not only in gray cloth but in tan as well.

IDEA IN SPRING MILLINERY

Wood and straw combine oddly in this hat for spring—or for the South. It is in lavender. A fanlike ornament of grosgrain ribbon juts out at the side.

CLASSIC LINES IN NEW GOWNS

Waist and Skirt Seem Made in One, Falling to Long, Slim Train on One Side.

At this dull season of the dressmaking year, when one wants something new, but not too elaborate, to give a little flick to the wardrobe, a new idea is a boon. The originator of the petal frock has finally abandoned the petal theme upon which she played limitless variations, and is devoting herself to a new idea—the Greek gown. This type of dress is so utterly simple that one holds one's breath a moment to see how the trick is done—how the wearer attains so much stateliness and distinction with so little means. There is no trimming—not a bead—no intricacy of line. A loose blouse, sleeveless, is slit straight across for the head to slip through, and a skirt lifted in a single line of drapery that exhibits the mastery of the designer. Whatever it is, it has the trick. Waist and skirt seem made in one, falling to a long, slim train on one side, and giving, as the Vionnet masterpieces always have extraordinary slowness and height to the wearer. It is notable that these models, like many evening gowns and not a few afternoon dresses, are very long—ankle length, not to mention the train.—Harper's Bazar

Crepe De Chine and Glove Silk.

Crepe-de chine and glove silk have lost none of their prestige in the category of women's lingerie. They are the substantial stand-bys, the silks that are tested and true. They give every satisfaction and always will. And in all of the designs you will find these two materials being used over and over again with the greatest success.

Showering a Leather Belt.

If you want to shorten a leather belt instead of cutting or buying a hole, neither of which is satisfactory, heat a knitting needle or hot pin red hot and punch it through. This can be done also in shortening the belt of a sewing machine if it breaks inopportunities.

THE NEW SPRING TAILLEUR

History repeats itself in this spring tailleur. It is of gray tricotine, braided with silk of the same tone—the feature being the bell-shaped sleeves so popular this season.

CREPES FOR KIDDIES' WEAR

Fabric Is Seen in Party Dresses as Well as Simple Daytime Frocks With Smocking.

Crepe de chine is increasing in popularity, as a fabric for children's dresses, and is seen in treatments that vary from the elaborate party dress with Spanish lace to the simple daytime frock with smocking. These smocked crepe de chines for very little tots have been on the market for some time, and now they are coming in for the much larger child.

The transition from this smocked style to the Mother Hubbard is a very easy one and the two types are both included in a group which is developed in pastel shades and in white with colored stitching.

Party dresses are, of course, the order of the day during these weeks, and the little girl may find frocks just as elaborate as her older sister, if she does not favor the simple styles that are designed for her. Her frock will probably be sleeveless, and if it follows the mode of many that have been observed recently, it will have openwork at the shoulder seams.

Coats are shown in bright colors and in such dressy fabrics as panne velvet, trimmed with fur. A smartly dressed little girl of four was seen in red from the top of her round hat to her crimson leggings and little kid shoes. Another girl, of twelve or fourteen, was wearing a three-quarter length coat of green velvet in unbelated flaring style fastened at the neck with little round steel buttons.

USE FOR THE SILK SCRAPS

Remnants May Be Worked Into New Crazy Quilt; Old Cover May Be Utilized.

Most of us have bureau drawers full of gaily colored silk scraps that we hate to throw away, but that are hardly large enough for real use. Why not make a crazy quilt? The old fashioned ones are complicated in design, but a most effective result is obtained by merely using square blocks of color, with occasionally two scraps sewed together for stripes. These blocks should be about five inches in diameter. Easier than making a separate cover and then lining it, is to take an old quilt and merely featherstitch the patches in heavy black silk right onto the quilt. Use plain black for the reverse side and add a black border of the same width as the block of color.

THE SIMPLE COIFFURE MODE

Broad Waves Undulate Away From Face and Are Drawn Low, With Fullness Over Ears.

Hairstressing modes of the moment continue to keep in favor simple lines which successfully avoid severity. Broad waves undulate away from the face, and are drawn rather low, with a slight fullness over the ears. The hair is arranged either quite high on the head or at the nape of the neck—the half-way position being avoided as a rule—in a compact roll or elongated twist, which is given the support of a decorative comb, a small one for daytime wear, and an exaggeratedly large one for evening and "dressy" purposes. This is a style suitable to the young and middle-aged alike, provided the features are not pronounced and the face itself is not too thin.

Washing Blankets.

When blankets are being washed, remember that the rising water must be swayed in order to make them light and fluffy. Another point is that all the waters in which the blankets are washed should be of the same temperature.

The Word "Trash."

The word "trash" originally meant straw broom or twig. Sellers of shavings frequently stied in the center of the bundle of sticks with the small, useless stuff to make the shavings bigger.

British women will "seek their own" in politics. A movement to organize a political party composed exclusively of women today is in full swing in England. The leaders, it is declared, are hopeful of gaining control of the government, inasmuch as there are 2,000,000 more women than men in Great Britain. Besides the Viscountess Rhonda, who has just been granted a seat in the House of Lords, there are other Peeresses who are entitled to seats with the Peers of the Realm. Seven of these are shown in the accompanying group. They may not, of course, take the seats to which they are entitled without an invitation from the House of Lords.

RECORD-MAKING COMMISSION.

Since the present Public Service Commission has been in office more than 12,000 complaints against public utility companies have been adjusted, a record never before equaled by any similar organization. When the commission was appointed Governor Miller notified the members that there was work ahead and that he expected that it would be done intelligently and expeditiously. That the commission endeavored to carry out the suggestion of the governor is proved by the number of grievances which have been settled.

The commission maintains a special staff to handle direct complaints from the public and the plan has worked exceptionally well, so well that there is now rarely any criticism because of delay, which, without this method of taking up the direct applications, would be almost unavoidable. As it is, when those are filed that can be settled promptly, the red tape that attached to the proceedings hitherto is eliminated and the grievance is settled.

Matters that come before the commission are closely related to the people, and it is an accepted fact that no department of the state service has more difficult problems to settle. At this particular period, when there is some depression industrially, car fare and telephone rates are acute subjects, but, acute as they may be, the commission is confident that eventually there will be an adjustment that will be satisfactory. The commission, as every other department of the state government, is regulated in action by statute, but with the loss important matters taken care of it will have the time to give ample attention to the more momentous questions in the interest of all concerned. This was made possible by not allowing the machinery of the organization to get clogged by matters that could be put out of the way promptly.

A PLAGUE OF THIS COUNTRY.

It is taught in the German schools as well as by German publicists that the war was forced on a spotlessly innocent Germany. This is inevitable and matters little. What matters is propaganda of the same sort by German residents and persons of recent German descent in the United States. What matters still more is a marked leaning in the same direction by powerful American newspapers in sections, as the middle west, where the German and German-American population is large. The Chicago Tribune, for example, now goes so far as to say:

To the United States the war was an unprovoked evil. It has not and it never will have any compensations. It was complete and total loss, an ugly chore which the nation properly avoided as long as it could. There was no ill will between this nation and Germany before the war started. There might not have been any for a long time if the war had not started. With the causes of the war the United States had nothing to do.

Have the German schemes of world-empire, frankly confessed by no few Germans, been so soon forgotten? A German submarine assassinated the Lusitania, an innocent passenger ship, killing a host of people, including many Americans. The Kaiser commanded American ships to keep away from where they had a right to go and ordered them to paint themselves like zebras when they ventured upon the Atlantic ocean. He offered Mexico her "lost provinces" if she would join him in the event of war with the United States. It these and many other outrageous things had not been done, it is quite true that there would have been "no ill will" between the two countries, but they were done. A costly plague of this country now as formerly is to be found in our foreign groups who want our policies dictated according to their foreign sympathies and the consequent "politics" played by native Americans seeking votes or other selfish gain.

The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor calls on the members of the Federation and on the public to demand an amendment to the Volstead law which would permit the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer. If the Federation stops at that, in the opinion of the New York World, it will accomplish nothing. If it wants its demand to receive attention, it "will have to take the fight to the floor of Congress and then into the elections."

Burroughs Nature Club Notes

Copyright 1921. By ROBERT H. WILSON CO.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper. Look for answers in this column.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Does the woolly bear caterpillar make a cocoon in autumn, like many worms?
2. How are sea shells made?
3. I want the sizes of boxes required for robins, bluebirds, and a few smaller birds, size of entrance holes, etc.

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

1. Kindly advise right time to trim branches of the evergreen tree. I have trees whose lower branches are about a foot off the ground, and want to trim the lower rows, to mow under the trees.

If the lower tiers of branches are full and well developed our advice is not to cut. The nature of the tree is to pyramid from the ground, and cutting off the branches spoils the base. Why not dig the earth at base of the trees, a trifle outside their circumference, and plant English ivy, myrtle or some such perennial that needs no mowing? Grass can then be mowed up to the rim of this bed. If the branches are scraggly, however, cutting may be advisable. Prune in early spring, and coat the wound with white lead, yellow ochre, coal tar or grafting wax, to prevent infection.

2. Can birds kill snakes? It depends on the kind of bird. Mockingbirds are courageous in attacking a snake that threatens the nest; and the roadrunner of the southwest eats small snakes. Hawks occasionally kill and eat snakes.

3. Why do horses shy when startled? This trick is said to be a legacy from the wild state, when horses had to be ready to dodge preying animals waiting to spring from a hiding place in tall grass. A horse is a nervous animal with strong emotions, and gives way to involuntary motions at the sight of anything not recognized. The habit of shying is better overcome by soothing the horse with the voice than by whipping it when already disturbed.

At Shady, March 3, 1922, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hoyt with their two youngest daughters Julia and Robert, and Mrs. Julius T. Guzman, a granddaughter who formerly resided in Porto Rico, took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. John T. Miller, in honor of Mr. Miller's eighty-sixth birthday. Many tokens of love and regard were received containing best wishes and congratulations from relatives and friends, from California, Michigan, Carthage, N. Y., Brooklyn and Kingston. Also from neighbors of his home town of Woodstock, N. Y., where he has lived the greater part of his life. Mr. Miller was the son of Joseph H. Miller and Esther Griffin, and is of English descent. He is the only survivor of a large family, with the exception of one half-brother George of Los Angeles, Cal. He has devoted most of his life to farming and lumbering. Some eighteen years ago he sold the old home where he was born to Lincoln MacDaniel, reserving a few acres upon which he built a small cottage where he with his wife still reside. In 1850 he was converted under the pastoral care of the Rev. Abram Brundage, and united with the M. E. Church. The year previous he was united in marriage to Julia I. Elving, who was a daughter of Levi Eltinge and Elizabeth DeForest. This aged couple have always been interested in the welfare of the church, serving it faithfully. He has been president of the board of trustees and one of the stewards for many years, class leader, and Sunday School superintendent for over twenty-five years. He now attends as a scholar, whenever possible. His presence is rarely lacking from the preaching service. He is respected by all who know him for his noble qualities and upright life. Mr. Miller never has used tobacco, nor intoxicants, and looks like a much younger man. He attends to his duties in his home and takes care of his few acres without assistance, in a thorough manner, which is characteristic of the man. Two sons and three daughters have come to bless this union. Walter Griffin Miller, who resided in Rochester at the time of his death which came suddenly after a brief illness in 1916. A noble son and a friend to everybody. Arthur DeForest Miller who resides in the lower part of the town. Carrie A. of Shady, wife of J. B. Hoyt. Laura Isabel of Newburgh, wife of Cyrus Van Etten. Elizabeth E. relict of Franklin Ames, who resides in Westhampton, N. Y. Besides several grandchildren and a few great grandchildren who sometimes come to visit and cheer us in our quiet home. We expect to reside in this home until we are called to the "Better Home" above. We wish to thank the many neighbors and friends who have contributed towards making it one of the happiest days of his life.

CHARGE FOR HEAT CONTENT OF GAS

New Selling Method in England by Which Consumers are Charged for Potential Thermal Units They Receive—100,000 Called a "Therm." The New York Times of January 25, said:

Details of the successful settlement in England of a conflict of long standing and one which is more or less continuous in all countries between producers and consumers with regard to the quality of gas furnished for heating and power purposes are contained in a report by Trade Commissioner Alexander V. Dye to the Foreign and Domestic Commerce Journal. The adoption of the new method of selling gas in England was brought about in the following manner:

During the war there was a great deal of complaint in regard to poor gas supplied by the gas companies, and one of the duties laid upon the fuel research board was to determine a new gas standard. After hearing many witnesses on both sides, a report was adopted, the central feature of which was that the existing system of charging the consumer for the volume of gas of a certain nominal illuminating or calorific value which passed through his meter should be replaced by one in which he was charged directly for the potential thermal units which he received.

According to the new system, the consumer is not charged for so many cubic feet of gas independent of the quality of that gas, but is charged for so many British thermal units. A British thermal unit is the amount of heat required to raise one pound of water 1 degree F.; 100,000 B. T. U. were therefore called a "therm," which is the unit of the new method of charging for gas. The gas is measured, as before, by the thousand cubic feet, but is paid for according to the heat units therein contained as shown by an instrument for measuring the Simmance total heat recording calorimeter. This measures the calorific value of the gas passing through the distributing mains of the gas company and continuously records this value by a line traced in ink on a strip of paper on which the hours are marked by lines ruled across the strip and the calorific value by parallel lines ruled along it. The record slips are periodically removed from the instrument and, if desired, can be regularly exposed in some public place for the inspection of the consumers.

This is also considered to be an advantage to the gas producing companies in that it gives them a wider range of material on which to work, the only limitations being that they must undertake to deliver to the consumer a gas free from sulphurated hydrogen and not containing more than 20 per cent of inert constituents during the first two years after installation, 18 per cent for the next two years, and 15 per cent thereafter. The gas company must declare the calorific value of the gas it intends to deliver; and adjust and, if need be, replace gratis the burners in consumers' appliances with all reasonable speed, so that gas as delivered can be burned in these appliances with safety and efficiency.

In the official report of the Fuel Research Board it is stated: "The recording calorimeter has already given tangible proofs of its value in controlling the quality of the gas supplied to consumers. A striking example of this was brought under our notice about a year ago by an association of large consumers in an important manufacturing centre. During the war the gas supply of the district had become so irregular and unsatisfactory that these consumers installed under their own direct control a Simmance total heat recording calorimeter and proceeded to take continuous records of the calorific value of the gas unknown to the officials of the gas undertaking and to the official gas examiner."

"When the reports of the gas examiner were issued month by month, it was possible, by referring back to the calorimeter records of the days on which the official tests had been made, to see exactly what had occurred, not only at the hour when the prearranged tests had taken place but during the days and hours preceding and following these tests."

"The record shows quite unmistakably that the consumers had been receiving for at least twenty-two out of twenty-four hours gas of a calorific value of 450 B. T. U. while during two hours or less a wave of rich gas had passed through the portion of the distributing system from which the two calorimeters received their supply. During the passage of this rich gas the official test was made at or near the summit of the wave, and the gas was given the official mark of 565 B. T. U. per cubic foot, or 115 B. T. U. higher than the gas which the consumers had been receiving for at least the preceding sixteen hours, or possibly since the last test."

It will be noted that this method is particularly designed to deal with heat and power gas, but due to the fact that most of the gas consumed in the United Kingdom is used for heat and power rather than for light, it is believed that its installation will settle a conflict of long standing.

9 DEAD, 40 HURT IN BELFAST WAR

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Belfast, March 7.—Nine persons were dead today in Belfast's latest reign of terror. Forty or more persons were wounded.

There was heavy firing throughout the city all night long.

Several policemen were wounded. A newsboy had his arm blown off by a bomb. Street cars were held up and derailed. An attempt was made to burn a large furniture store but it failed.

Trolley Lines Neck Relief.

A bill, advocated by the street car companies of the state, and which it is estimated will save them about $10,000,000 annually and add that much additional to the burden of the taxpayers, has been introduced by Assemblyman Everett of St. Lawrence county. The measure would relieve the trolley roads of paying the cost of maintaining the streets between the tracks and for two feet on each side.

Kansas City, Mo., March 7.—Four men are known to be dead, another is dying and twelve others injured early this morning when an air tank exploded in the car barns of the Kansas City Railway Company. Beauty and Power of Sincerity.

Finally, let us remember that the great secret of clear expression is sincerity. If your deepest desire is to speak the truth, your utterance will have the beauty and the power which belong to sincere speech. Say the thing that you know, the thing that you heartily believe, and say nothing else. Let all your discipline in speaking or writing be a discipline in truth telling. Don't talk against conviction or without conviction. Don't amuse yourself by trying to see if you can not make a strong argument for a false position. Don't talk for effect. Don't talk for popularity. Don't talk for victory. Speak the thing that you have found to be true, in your own experience, or the thing which, with the best light you can get, you believe to be true.—"Live and Learn," Washington Gladden.

Gladstone to His Son.

With respect to philosophy, I do not know what may be best according to modern fashions at Oxford, nor do I know what number of books you should take up. But, as far as the value of the books in themselves and for discipline of the mind are concerned, I should recommend you as three books Aristotle's "Ethics" and "Politics" and Butler's "Analogy." You should also read and know Butler's sermons. I should think you ought now to begin the "Analogy," or the "Politics," if not both. I would read little at a time, making sure that you thoroughly understand and possess everything as you go along—not that the two are the same, for the "Politics" will call more upon memory, the "Analogy" upon thought.—Gladstone to his son at Oxford.

The Strategy of Clothes.

I've just been chuckling over this absurd question: "Why do women always choose the wrong hats?" Evidently the inquirer is a very young man, and unmarried, or else he would know. Women invariably choose a hat that doesn't suit the dress they're wearing, so that in a day or so they can come plain that they haven't a dress that will go with their new hat. When they buy the dress, they naturally get one that is in advance of the hat, and in a few more days they have lamentations to heaven that they haven't a hat to go with the new dress—and so, as the poet says, ad infinitum. If we didn't do this, the more man would never buy any more clothes at all.—"Esquimaux" in London Opinion.

GRANT MEMORIAL TO BE UNVEILED IN WASHINGTON, D.C.

GOOD IDEA FOR ANY TOWN

Example Set by Newark Public Library Might Well be Copied by Other Communities.

Were you ever on the top of Pike's peak? It is about 14,539 feet up in the air, and some people, in spite of motors and cog railways, find the ascent difficult. The plateau on which the Tibetans live—it is ten times as big as England—is all of it as high or higher than Pike's peak, and the mountains around slope up to nearly 25,000 feet. Kipling in "Kim," spoke of it as being like a swallow's nest under the eaves of the roof of the world.—"Kim" threw his soul after his eyes across the deep blue gulfs.

It is still a mysterious land, and until a few years ago almost an unknown one. The Newark (N. J.) public library has just held an exhibit of all sort of things Tibetan—things brought together through the happy conjunction of a missionary of unusual experience and the museum staff—and this exhibit is supplemented with pamphlets and pictures tending to make it more understandable and interesting. This is a typical sample of the work of the Newark library under its unusual chief, John Corbin Dana, says Leslie's. A few years ago there was a similar exhibit of Colombian things—Colombia being another interesting and inaccessible land. Director Dana believes that a library should "sell" itself to business men and not restrict its activities to young lady readers of fiction, children and unoccupied old gentlemen. It should be a real constructive force in the everyday life of the community, and not a sort of museum of books and a lounging place. The Newark library is pretty well known among librarians about the country, but the sort of work it does is not imitated as generally as it might well be.

Limited Knowledge.

"What kind of people are those who have just moved in next door to you?" asked Mrs. Gagner. "Oh, I never talk about my neighbors," replied Mrs. Herndon. "All I know about them is that their stuff came in one load, that only one of the postboys has any brass on it, most of the furniture looks old, there's six in the family, the children are all boys, they have two dogs, the man is about twenty years older than the woman, they had a squabble with the driver of the van when they settled with him and his name is Smith."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Keeps Silver Bright.

In order to keep silver that is not in constant use in a good condition, fill a paper with alternate layers of forks, spoons and other objects and common flour that is perfectly dry. If the silver is bright and dry when you put it away, it may be used at any time without being cleaned for a year or two. After this time the flour needs drying again. This plan saves a great deal of cleaning.

Light Without Heat.

One of the things which inventors would like most to accomplish is the production of light without heat. No time passes by the example of the firefly, and the glowworm that the thing can be done. Experiments made abroad have shown what had long been believed without direct measurement of the temperature that the light radiated from a Geissler tube, when an electric current passes through it, is accompanied by very little heat. This accords with the view that we must look to electricity for a solution of the problem of "cold light."

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

by S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

Are you saving money?

No doubt most persons who might answer this question in the negative would qualify it by stating that they expect to begin saving sometime.

But the time to begin is not sometime. It is today.

Many of those who do not save money say they will begin when they have larger incomes. But experience has shown that as one's income increases the difficulty in adjusting one's personal affairs to a money saving basis does not grow less.

It is a very dangerous procedure to drift along from day to day without making provision for the future. Statistics show an alarming percentage of old persons who are entirely dependent on public charity or the support of friends.

It should be borne in mind that the amount that one saves is of much less importance than that one saves at all. It is true, that the amounts laid by at stated intervals should be as large as one can manage consistent with circumstances but if for various reasons one is not able to save a large percentage of one's income there should at least be some portion of earnings put away systematically.

Even comparatively insignificant savings have their up-building value. The process may be slow in the beginning, but as time goes on it will be of enlarged scope.

If you are not saving any money at all today, take hold of yourself! Get out of the rut! Quit being a drifter!

No matter how small your earnings or income may be, start at once to put aside at least a small sum regularly.

You will be surprised at the contentment of mind that even small savings will bring, and you will be surprised also at the rapidity with which your carefully guarded savings will grow.

The time to start your thrift practices is today.

Use FREEMAN advertising regularly and conservatively and results will surely follow.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BOWEN

KING LION'S BONE

"Roar, roar, roar," shouted King Lion. "Some one said something very rude about me just now."

"What was that, Your Majesty?" asked the Lioness from the next cage.

"Some one said that I looked like a dog with a bone," said King Lion. "The very idea of saying that I looked like a dog, a great and mighty lion as I am!"

"I never heard of anything so absurd in all my life, never, never, never!"

"I don't see how any one could have said such a thing in the first place. I don't like a dog in the least. A dog is a silly creature compared to me."

"A dog barks, and yet his bark is usually such a friendly bark."

"Then the dog wags his tail. I wouldn't do anything so silly. The dog smiles, too, when he shows his teeth. Yes, very, very often the dog wags that. But I don't."

"I roar and I mean it. The dog growls at times, but often even when he growls, he is friendly."

"His growl isn't wild, like my roar. No, it is often a friendly growl. As a rule the dog likes to make friends. He likes to be patted and he even kisses people."

"Fancy that!"

"I wouldn't kiss any one. Not I, no indeed."

"I am sure you wouldn't," said the Lioness.

"I am so dignified and so fine," said King Lion.

"Of course," said the Lioness, "there are some creatures who think that even if one is fine and brave and noble one may be quite loving and devoted, too. Some don't think it makes a creature any less fine to be sweet and friendly."

"In fact, some think it shows a finer, nobler nature."

"Some may think so," said King Lion. "But I do not. Some may think all sorts of things, but poor! What do such creatures amount to?"

"Have people who may think such thoughts names?"

"I answer my own question! No, they have not! Can they roar?"

"Again I answer my own question. They try to roar at times, but they cannot. They can't hold up their heads and open their mouths wide and let great, noble, wild, terrific sounds come forth."

"They can open their mouths wide and they can hold up their heads, but that is as far as they can go. They can go in other ways, perhaps—I mean they can run and so forth, but they can't go very far with their voices."

"So why should I pay any attention to what they do? I don't."

"I see," said Mrs. Lioness.

"But I was talking about a dog," continued King Lion.

"So you were, Your Majesty," said the Lioness.

"And I shall continue to talk about the dog and the person who said I was like a dog," said King Lion.

"By all means, talk away," said the Lioness.

"Roar, roar, roar," said King Lion. "I do not like a dog, and I don't want any one to say that about me."

"And if any one says that about me again I will give such a roar that I will make such a person tremble with fear. That I will do. Most certainly I will."

"Just because I was having a beautiful time eating a great, huge bone, some one thought I looked like a dog."

"I don't believe any one really thought so," said the Lioness. "I suppose they just thought the bone looked like a bone a dog might enjoy."

"It was too big a bone for a dog," said King Lion. "The keeper gave me a great raw meat bone because he knows I must chew on something hard like that. It gives more variety or chance to my meals. That is important."

"But a dog isn't even any distant relation of mine. I'll let them know that my bone is the bone for a lion's meal, and not for a dog."

"Roar, roar, roar," said King Lion at the top of his tremendous voice.

And the Lioness smiled a wild, wild smile and said:

"I guess no one thinks you're like anything but a lion!"

Incidentally,

"May I help you to night, madam?" asked the lad politely.

"I have you understand boy," replied the woman curdly, "I do not smoke."

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS

A nice roast for a small family may be made from a slice of round steak.

Chop one green pepper and one onion, half cupful of celery; add four capfuls of bread crumbs, a teaspoonful of minced parsley, and salt and pepper to taste. Mix the dressing, adding enough water or milk to make it very moist. Spread over the steak, which has been previously well seasoned with salt and pepper, roll up and skewer with toothpicks. Put in a covered roaster with a slice of bacon and one cupful of water on top and cook slowly two hours.

Fig Marmalade.—After washing one pound of pulled figs, soak them overnight, then cut fine and put over the fire, with the water in which they were soaked; cook until very tender, adding the rind of a lemon and two ounces of candied or preserved ginger, then stir in the lemon juice from one lemon, and two cupfuls of sugar; simmer again until thick. Pour into small glasses.

Grapefruit Jelly.—Put three tablespoonfuls of gelatin in a saucepan; add one and one-half cupfuls of cold water, one-half cupful of sugar; stir over the fire with three cupfuls of grapefruit juice pulp; when boiling, strain and add one tablespoonful of lemon juice. Divide into small glasses and place on ice to become firm. Serve topped with whipped cream, sweetened and sprinkled with coconut.

Keep Cake Moist.—It is said that cakes made with honey will keep soft for months. It is used in some quantities as the sugar, the recipe calls for. As honey is slightly acid it is preferable to use baking soda instead of baking powder. Also use one-fourth less liquid in the cake than recipe requires, because a cup of honey contains one-fourth cup of water besides the equivalent of a cup of sugar.

"There's a man in front who says he wants to lick you," said the office urchin of the Chiggleville Clarion. "All right," replied the editor as he whipped off his collar and tie, rumpled his hair, disarranged his dress and smeared ink on his face, neck and ears. THE LAUNDRY DRAIN REVEALS WHAT WASH-DAY RUBBING DOES TO YOUR CLOTHES

Next washday after you have let all the water run out of the laundry tub, peer down the drain and see what is there.

Rins of lint, tiny fuzzy balls, little roughed-up shreds. You've noticed them often—did it ever occur to you what they were? Particles of the materials that make up your clothes. And you yourself have worn them off rubbing the clothes on a wash-board.

Now there is a way to remove every bit of dirt without rubbing the material in any way.

Soak your clothes in Mirro soda. This new kind of soap is so rich in pure cleansing ingredients that it gently loosens and dissolves all the dirt. There is no hard rubbing, no wear and tear on the clothes—nothing so break or even weaken the fabric.

SUPREME COURT IN MARCH TERM

Many of the More Than 300 Cases on the Calendar Are Disposed of—Murray Grand Jury Foreman.

The March term of Supreme court was convened Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the court house with Justice Joseph Rosch presiding. A grand and trial jury is in attendance. Edward Murray of the town of Shawangunk was selected as foreman of the grand jury and after being instructed as to their duties the grand jury retired to enter upon their deliberations.

At the call of the petit jury several of the jurors drawn did not appear but sent letters or certificates of illness. The following members were excused, being either ill or presenting legal excuses: C. S. Brown, Arthur E. Butler, Edward Crispell, Patrick Davitt, Wesley France, W. W. Edenburgh, Adam Genthner, O. Mount, Ezra Sprague, Charles L. Terwilliger, Benjamin Ten Hagen, Macy Van Wageningen, Edward Van Wageningen, Winfield Scott was excused until next Monday at 2 o'clock.

There are over three hundred cases on the calendar, one being added Monday on motion of Attorney John W. Eckert. An action brought by Oscar S. Jansen against Joshua Birch was placed at the foot of the calendar. Senator Walton appears for plaintiff and Brinnier, Canfield & Brinnier for defendant.

Although the calendar contains a large number of cases the majority of them were put over the term on the call of the calendar, several were announced settled and several were marked off. An action brought by Nathan Siegel vs. Benjamin Kelly, action for work, labor and services, was announced settled. The action brought by Max Popil vs. Isaac Zwerner, an action on check, was also settled. Joseph T. Perry vs. Union Pacific Tea Company was also settled.

The following cases were put on the day calendar for trial today.

No. 64, W. R. Harrison and ano against Frederick Perry, Brinnier, Canfield & Brinnier for plaintiff and Van Etten & Cook for defendant.

No. 121, Ernest Shaler vs. Isidore Paradis, Brinnier, Canfield & Brinnier for plaintiff and Frank W. Brooks for defendant.

No. 159, Jacob Furmansky vs. Williamson, and ano, an action on promissory note, Van Etten & Cook for plaintiff and William H. Grogan for defendant.

No. 186, Arcadia Garage, Inc. vs. Louis Rosenstock, an action on contract, Henry Klein for plaintiff and John R. DeVany for defendant.

No. 126, Barney Millens vs. Maurice Plank, Brinnier, Canfield & Brinnier for plaintiff and Jacob M. Kiam for defendant.

Cases No. 29 to 16 inclusive, the famous Hubert Kelly insurance cases which have been pending for the past couple of years and which are given an airing at each term of court, again came up. They were marked for trial but when reached in making up the day calendar were passed and marked "list Wednesday." This was due to the fact that Mr. Mills, attorney for defendant companies, is engaged in Albany and was unable to be present at court here Monday. Judge Jenkins appeared for Mr. Mills and requested that the cases be held until Mr. Mills could be present. Mr. DeVany, attorney for plaintiff, asked that one of the cases be put on the day calendar and moved the second one against the Catskill Mountain Fire Insurance Company. Judge Rosch announced that although he would not put one of the cases on until Mr. Mills had a chance to be present still he was anxious that the cases be disposed of as they had been on the calendar so long. The cases are all brought by Mr. Kelly against different fire insurance companies to recover upon fire insurance policies. There are eight cases against many companies.

Court recessed until 10 o'clock this morning.

LARGE AUDIENCE ENJOYS MUSICALE

The Sunday school room of the St. James M. E. Church was filled to the last seat on Monday evening with an audience that was most appreciative of the fine program given by the artists who had been much heralded.

Miss Suzanne Stokvis of London and New York, pianist, opened the program with a fine rendition of the always enjoyable Schubert Impromptu in A flat. To the enthusiastic applause she graciously responded with an encore number. Miss Stokvis's other numbers showed her to be a versatile artist, the "Murmuring Breezes," by Jensen, being very graceful and the Heller number, "Sleepless Night" demanding a much more dramatic performance. The most brilliant number played by Miss Stokvis was her last number, the Fantasia, "Rigoletto," (Verdi-Liszt) demanding a finished technique and understanding interpretation of the whole opera as well as the Fantasia. This number especially delighted the large audience.

Madame Eaton Beaumont has a soprano voice of wide range and much sweetness, especially in the middle register. She gave a musically rendition of "Villanelle" by Del Aqua, "Staccato Polka" by Mulder, and the elaborate and charming aria from the Opera of "Ernani," by Verdi, "Ernani Involanti." Madame Eaton Beaumont was also recalled and graciously gave an encore number.

Probably no Kingston audience has ever heard Richard Meyer, violinist, play better than he did Monday evening. He had chosen his selections wisely and his playing was true, his tone full and his interpretation excellent. Arthur Alton, organist of St. John's Church, accompanied Mr. Meyer, who played "Apple Blossoms," by Roberts, the Ruff Cavatina, "The Prize Song" from

Wagner's "Die Meistersinger," and Handel's "Largo."

It is always a pleasure to listen to Mr. La Tour's delightful tenor voice, used in a manner that shows him to be really an artist, and all of his numbers were enthusiastically applauded. He sang, "Hymn to the Night," by Campbell Tipton; "Song, My Mother Taught Me," by Dorak; and "Mattineto" by Leoncavallo for his first group and "The Garden of My Heart," and "All Joy Be Thine," by Sanderson, as the second group. Both Mr. La Tour and Madame Eaton Beaumont were accompanied by Mrs. William S. Eltinge.

Emilio Aguinaldo.

Spanish-American War veterans at Los Angeles have invited Emilio Aguinaldo, Philippine Insurrectionist, to attend their convention next August. Coincident with the invitation comes the news that Aguinaldo, banned from Philippine politics by the United States government, is being urged by his friends to again become active in the affairs of the government of the islands. Following his banishment from politics by our government has been little heard of during the past few years. He has not yet accepted the invitation to attend the convention of the California Spanish American War veterans.

Carrying Church to Gallows.

(Copyright by Examiner-American Pub. Co.)

Harvey Church, convicted murderer of Carl Asmus and Bernard Daugherty, automobile salesmen, was "mentally dead" when he went to his death on the gallows at Chicago. His case knows no parallel in the history of Chicago. For forty days he remained silent and for several weeks prior to his execution he had carried on a self-imposed fast. So weak was Church at the hour of his doom that he was strapped to a chair and bodily carried to the scaffold. Church's body was cremated and the ashes sent to Adams, Wis., his boyhood home.

RAILROAD WAGE HEARINGS BEGIN

Roads Ask Reductions in Wages of Other Occupations in Same Territory—Some Unions Ask Increase.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Chicago, March 7.—Railroad of the country today requested the United States Railway Labor Board to again slash wages of their employees.

Cuts ranging from four to 27 cents per hour for employees on an hourly basis and from $10.92 to $14.28 per month for those on a monthly pay basis, were asked of the board.

Practically all railway employees, except those in train service, are affected.

Two hundred and five railroads and twenty-five unions are involved in the wage hearing before the board. Some of the roads, in hands of receivers, have asked for separate hearings. A few unions are seeking wage increases for the employees. The shopcrafts, it is understood, will make such a plea.

"The railroads are not asking for the low level of pre-war wages," said John W. Higgins, executive secretary of the association of western railroads, who made the opening presentation of the roads today, filing an immense amount of tabulated evidence.

For track and common laborers, unskilled work, the railroads asked that they be authorized to pay the prevailing rates for such labor in the locality of employment.

Higgins presented voluminous data to show that railroad wages were uniformly higher than those paid in similar industries, a factor which the transportation act required as a basis of consideration of a wage scale.

The survey prepared by the roads covered 5,327 industries in twenty-eight western states. Of the 318,899 employees of all classes in comparable industries, 247,866, or 77.75 per cent were getting lower wages in December, 1921, than the railroads were paying for similar service.

The investigation disclosed, according to the railroads' figures, that in Arkansas, Arizona, Kentucky, Michigan, Mississippi and Tennessee, more than ninety per cent of other industries are paying less than railroad wages. In Illinois seventy to eighty per cent of the employees are being paid less than the railroad scale. Several western states show less than fifty per cent of the employees at less than the wages paid the railroad men.

The railroads, Higgins contended, are being obliged to pay higher rates than in outside industries for similar work and, therefore, are "under a great disability which subjects them to criticism."

The present controversy before the board may require considerable time. Higgins is representing the western roads, John G. Wolber, the eastern, and W. A. Northcott, the southeastern.

The cases will be held in the following order:
